Formed in 2017 by Mark Sheeky & Deborah Edgeley, Fall in Green perform contemporary spoken-word poetry combined with music in an act that is everything from art performance, to classical lieder, to progressive rock. Their subjects vary from the humorous to the dark and surrealistic, as they use props, projection, and costume to create a unique show.

Fall in Green have released three albums: Testing The Delicates (2018), Apocalypse of Clowns (2019), and Lou Salome Empathy With Daisies (2022), a project inspired by Italian author Stefano Santachiara; and three singles: Time Falling (2018), Who is Afraid/She Floats (2018), Jabberwocky (2021), plus an E.P. War is Over (2020).

Mark Sheeky is a contemporary artist and polymath; oil painter, piano player, and music producer. Sheeky has one oil painting in the Cheshire art collection, and is composer, performer, and producer on over 30 album releases since 2000. Published books include the novella The Many Beautiful Worlds of Death (2015), and 21st Century Surrealism (2018).

Deborah Edgeley is a poet, and editor-in-chief of Ink Pantry, a writers' collective formed during her literature studies at The Open University. Published collections include Testing The Delicates about the prejudice surrounding mental health, Willkommen Zum Rattenfänger Theater (2019), Solitary Child, Friend of Immortals (2020) and Super 8 Magicscape (2021).
